DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1,4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In these claims, the fluid is not being positively cited. The fluid is merely being "intended" to be introduced into successive areas. Thus, until the claims is calling for the combination, the prior art merely needs to meet the subcombination of simply the telescoping hoist.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1,2,4 and 5 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent #5,983,778 to DAWSON in view of US patent #3,508,773 to COBERLY et al. Regarding claims 1,2,4 and 5, DAWSON discloses the use of a telescopic hoist including a cylindrical housing (12) having a first end with a plate (23) and a second end with a series of tubular sections (14-20) each having bore seals (64-72) having with openings (94-102), a piston end (26) also with an opening or inlet/outlet port (28) that allows for the introduction of fluid into successive areas (12a,14a,16a,18a,20a) and contains the fluid between the piston head (26) and another piston head (88), column 3, lines 49-53, and sealing means (74-82) sealing the fluid between the tubular sections (3,6) such that air from between the sections (12-20) is free to enter the heads (64-72) at the openings (94-102) formed therein such that the fluid and grease provides for a "semi-lubricated contact" between the members (14-20). DAWSON discloses the basic claimed device except for forming the device out of nitrided steel. COBERLY et al. teaches that it is known in the art to form telescopic members (32,34,22) out of nitrided steel, column 9, lines 5-10. Hence, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the telescopic hoist members of DAWSON out of nitrided steel, as taught by COLBERLY et al., in order to not only form a hoist that high strength potential and surface hardness, but that also is durable. Further, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the use intended as an obvious matter of design choice. For instance perhaps a steel structure is suitable in environment for use where extremely heavy devices are hoisted. Nitrided steel has a very effective coefficient of friction and will wear less as a result of any potential rubbing between the members of the hoist sections. In further reference to claim 5, the tubular sections (14-20) includes at least an outermost (14) and an inner most section (20) that allow fluid to be introduced into section (14a-18a) located between at least the outermost (14) and innermost (20) sections.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are most in view of the newly revised ground(s) of rejection.
